

IMARA's structure (Institute of Arts and Crafts) has been focusing its energy and impetus skills for 18 years now to the benefit of two main missions :

- Transmitting crafts know-how through ongoing vocational training
- Promoting arts and crafts as well as the people involved by organizing specific activities and events (national and international conferences, collective actions...)

Owing to an efficient network dynamics implying economic, educational and touristic partners as well as the knowledge of the sector, IMARA now offers an environment conducive to the success of creation projects and to the development of companies in relation to arts and crafts.
